Womens Institute

At the regular meeting of the W. I. which was held in Campbell's Hall last Tuesday, nominations for the mock election which is to take place on Nov. 23rd, were held, resulting as follows:

For Mayor—Mrs. Williamson and Mrs. Alcock.
Councillors—for South Ward, Mrs. Bradfield, Mrs. Fry.
Centre Ward—Mrs. Hummel, Mrs. Moffatt.
North Ward—Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Hoskins.

Each woman has a platform and can advance good sufficient reasons for their election and if elected will make every effort to have immediate action taken to produce results. The nominees were given one minute to advance their cause. Election day they will be given three minutes previous to casting the ballot in order that all present may vote intelligently. This meeting Nov. 23rd, we hope to be the most beneficial and educational meeting which the Institute has had this year. We will have promptly at 3.30 a lecture from Mr. Woodhull and instruction on the ballot and its proper uses and we hope every woman in town and community will be present. This is an excellent opportunity to become familiar with one of our newly acquired rights. We also have quite a large membership of men whom we request to be present and support the candidate whom they favor. If the enthusiasm of last Tuesday is an indication Nov. 23rd meeting will certainly be a great success.

Owing to many counter attractions last Tuesday, our program was mostly impromptu possibly just as enjoyable. Community singing—and our women's singing—some of the old time songs were enjoyed. Glad to see such a large meeting and hope for double the number on Nov. 23rd. The nominating Com. Mrs. Ulrich & Woodhull were appointed by the chair and are anxious for suggestions and nominations of the executive officers for 1921. This is not a one man organization it is everybody's Choir Members Honored.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Roberts entertained the choir of the Union Church for practice and a social evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Robinson and Mrs. Taylor, who are leaving town in the near future, and whom we are very sorry to lose. They have been a great assistance in the musical circle both in church and community. The opportunity of expressing our appreciation of the voluntary services of our genial choir leader, Mr. Geo. Campbell and our faithful pianist Mr. T. Moorehouse was also taken and expressed. For years it has been the custom to send flowers to our friends when they die, a bouquet to them when they are living, perhaps, would be more encouraging. Let us try it. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess after which the company sang "For they were Jolly Good Fellows," "Glad to meet, sorry to part, Hope to meet again."

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Campbell attended the Ladies' Curling Club dance in Vulcan on Thursday evening.

While there was no special preparation made for the event this is the special auction sale issue of The Chronicle.

J. O. Reid returned this week from attending the funeral of his brother at Orangeville, Ont.

A. S. and E. Roberts made a business trip to Calgary on Thursday. H. Cooper taking charge of the Gent's furnishings.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sutton left for California on Thursday. The auction sale held on Tuesday was decidedly successful, practically everything bringing satisfactory prices.

Young Tasmanian Makes Wireless Outfit.

A remarkable performance has been made by a young Tasmanian who has been experimenting with wireless telegraphy at Hobart. Living on an emu, he and his brother rigged up a wireless installation for an outlay of less than $25, and picked up messages sent out from the Eiffel Tower, station, Paris, Britain, New York, Lyons, Nancy, Carman, and Rome, to say nothing of intervening stations.

An Automatic Grain Stooker

Alberta Man Invents Stooker That Gives Promise of Success.

A full size model of an automatic grain stooker invented and patented in Canada and the United States by John Elder, of Raymond, Alberta, is now being built. The stooker is attached to the binder and the inventor believes that it will revolutionize the harvester world. Simplicity is written into the machine, and it is said that the usual number of horses will be able to pull the binder with the stooker attached, so easily does it operate. Those who have seen the machine freely admit that it looks like a success. At Ottawa, Mr. Elder was told that his invention was the simplest patent of all the hundreds of patented grain stookers on record.

In asking our readers to remember their subscriptions it might not be amiss to note that The Chronicle has been printed for eighteen months. While the majority of the weeklies in the country have raised the subscription price to $2.00 per year, the old rate has not been changed and the subscription price of this paper is still $1.50. Now a single subscription at this price is not a serious matter but a big flock of them runs to figures which make a big difference to the publisher. When you are in town make it a point to recall the small obligation you have to the Chronicle.

Winter is again with us and as it is the principle time in which recreation is possible for the farmer it might not be amiss to point out that the curling rink affords an opportunity of meeting your friends and neighbors under peculiarly favorable conditions. Not only is it the very first of winter games from the fact that old and young, male and female, may take part in it, but from a social point of view it provides a mixing place that cannot be equalled. In thinking over what you will do this winter don't pass up the curling rink without giving the proposition a look over.

The falling off in domestic demand and not the importation of Canadian wheat was largely responsible for the recent depression of wheat prices. Mr. Barnes, former director general of the U. S. Grain Corporation declared before the Markley Committee of the American Farm Bureau Federation, saying that during the first four months of the current crop year, preceding November 1, the millers' consumption of United States wheat had been 50,000,000 bushels less than during the same period last year.

Several instances of damage done on Halloween have come to light and the parties involved narrowly missed appearing on the carpet before H. Cooper. The annoying part of the thing to householders involved was that far from being the work of children out of fun, young men, who should have known better, were the cause of the damage. In this instance the names of the villains are suppressed on account of their friends and relatives.

Premier Meighen says that big business is good for the country, and that in other countries big business is encouraged. Doubtless this is correct in every way. What the agriculturists in this country object to is being taxed to create the big businesses and then further taxed to make these big concerns bigger, and to prevent any other big concerns coming into competition with them.

The latest raise in the cost of agricultural implements is very much in the nature of the last straw. The decreasing values of grain and all other kinds of farm produce, together with the extraordinary high

Re Brood Sows.

To the Editor:
During the past few weeks, the Department of Agriculture has received a number of requests for information as to where brood sows may be secured.

It is evident that there will be a demand throughout the fall. Many farmers during the past two years have sold entirely out of their breeding stock of sows and now that grain has had reduced somewhat in price, some of these men are anxious to again become established in the business but find no local supply from which to secure a start. The matter was discussed by the Live Stock Commission of the Department of Agriculture, the Markets Representative of the Dominion Government and with the commission firms at the Edmonton and Calgary Stock Yards. It was learned that a considerable number of good brood sows are now passing through the stock yards and are being bought by the packers for slaughter.

Arrangements have been made with the Live Stock Exchanges at these yards to fill orders for brood sows. The Department will place a representative in the yards to see that the farmer's interests are looked after. Farmers are advised to secure sows from local shippers if possible, which will save freight to and from the central yards. Those wishing to purchase from the stock yards should communicate with the secretary of the Edmonton Live Stock Exchange, Ltd., Stock Yards, Edmonton or Calgary Live Stock Exchange, Alberta. Stock

Yields Of

Bush Fruits.

At the Central Experimental Farm, the average yield of the Herbert raspberry for two years on one row six feet in length was at the rate of more than 300 bushels per acre. Under field conditions, cultivated raspberries produce from 50 to 100 bushels of crop per acre, according to the season. Gooseberries at 40 pounds per bushel yielded at the rate of 900 bushels to the acre. Red Currants gave 300 bushels to the acre in one instance and 400 bushels in another. These figures are taken from a new bulletin issued by the Experimental Farms at Ottawa on the subject of "Bush Fruits." In this pamphlet the current, gooseberry, raspberry, blackberry, dewberry, and Loganberry are treated in such a way as to make clear the best practice in their cultivation and to understand the merits of the different worthy varieties. Used Wrong Color In Drawing

Through a mistake in using blue ink instead of black in a sketch of the recent Charavari here, the production of our artist could not be reproduced by the engravers. In consequence a write up of the great event, and the part played by so many of our prominent citizens, is held over until it can be properly illustrated, words alone being totally inadequate for this occasion. The Chronicle, along with the great majority of the citizens, realizes the importance of recording the brilliant receptions awaiting young couples in Champion, both faithfully and literally as far as is humanly possible. Readers will thus have to wait another week for the brilliant portrayal of this event that has been planned.

An Ad. in The Chronicle.

Sound Financing All Round

The Great War brought about many developments and revealed many hitherto unsuspected powers in Canada. This Dominion was discovered as being capable of yielding a military strength and prowess undreamed of by itself or any other people. It demonstrated its ability to produce munitions of war on a scale of great magnitude. Even under adverse conditions, its productive capacity in all directions was shown to be almost beyond measure when all its people will to sacrifice, spare and work.

But probably Canada's most unsuspected and amazing strength was revealed in its ability to finance itself even under the enormous obligations and expenditures which war forced upon it. Before the war, Canada was a borrowing nation, and a borrowing nation on a large scale. The idea of a government and the large expenditures required for developmental purposes of a national character were suggested itself to the Canadian people. Federal and Provincial Governments, municipalities and large corporations were content to float their bonds and sell their debentures in Great Britain and the United States.

The Great War changed all this. At the outset, Canada borrowed from Great Britain; later it borrowed from the United States. During the last three years of the war, however, Canadians themselves supplied their Government with all the money it required and a sufficient amount over and above its requirements to enable it to grant credits to Great Britain and other countries. Year after year the Canadian people furnished the Dominion Government with some far in excess of the total of Canada's national debt before the war.

This not only contributed greatly to Canada's strength during the war, but since. Tens of millions of dollars which otherwise would have been drained out of the Dominion in interest payments have been distributed among our own people. The ending of interest bearing coupons has become a commonplace in homes all over the country.

What was proven to be good policy for the Dominion as a whole is being recognized throughout the Prairie Provinces of Canada as good policy for this western country; hence we find that the Governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta have all devised schemes whereby "their" people who have money to invest may lend it to their respective Governments on gilgated security and these Governments re-lend it to those persons or their people who are in need of money for development and productive purposes within the Province. As a result, not only is Western money put to work in the West, and interest payments thereon earned by Western people, but the money is put to work in the West to further its development and increase its prosperity. And Governments are placed in funds without being obliged to go solely to Eastern and to foreign markets and remit large sums in interest payments to points outside the Province.

Now is this healthy development, this adding of financial strength and independence to the West, being confined to Provincial Governments? Municipalities are appealing to their own citizens and taxpayers to become the holders of municipal debentures. A gratifying measure of success is attending these efforts—Regina being a notable example where several municipal bond issues have been fully subscribed for by its own citizens.

As a matter of historical fact, even before the Dominion Government adopted the policy of floating regional Victory Loans, the Government of Saskatchewan had inaugurated the policy of going to its own people to provide the money necessary to carry through its Farm Loans plan, and in its appeal upwards of one million dollars was received. Thus the Dominion Government withdrew its appeal and held it in abeyance as so not to conflict with the way finance programme of the Dominion. With the war over, and the necessity for Victory Loan campaigns removed, Saskatchewan is again energetically pushing the sale of Farm Loan debentures to its own people.

It is good policy for a citizen to buy the bonds of his own Province or municipality. Unlike the big financial corporations, it is not a money-making venture on the part of these public bodies, nor is the money making venture on the part of these financial entities of the whole country and the world. The system is administered at cost—the lender receiving the highest possible interest rate and the borrower securing his loan at the lowest possible cost.

Through this simple machinery the West is being made more and more economically independent of the East and the big financial corporations, its money is being kept at home, and it is actively at work promoting the further development of the country and increasing the prosperity of all.

Choosing Coal by The Microscope

Series of Microscopic Tests By Which Various Coals Are Classified.

The selection of the particular coal to give the best results for certain purposes has always been an important matter for the engineer. Today, with the enhanced cost of coal, it has become a vital problem. Hitherto it has been the custom to rely upon open chemical compositions and tests of the heat value of the coal, but the engineer of a leading firm, which buys about a quarter of a million tons of coal every year for various uses, confirms the suspicion that something more is needed before the most economical coal in each case can be determined. He has worked out a series of microscopic tests by which various coals are classified, by each class being most efficient for steam raising, or gas production, or some other particular service. The method adopted is to grind the surface of a small sample of coal exceedingly smoothly, fix it by the smooth surface of a piece of glass and grind away the remainder until a slice thin enough to transmit light remains on the glass. When examined under the microscope this slice reveals the inner structure of the coal. The behavior of the coal when fixed corresponds to its structure, and which ought to be made of the coal. The same investigator has found that very uniform results are obtained, so that one or two tests are sufficient to determine the qualities of the coal. This method is so simple and it will become possible to order coals according to an exact specification, such as is now done with special steels and alloys.

Encourage Egg Production

All Provinces Are Competing in Egg Laying Contests.

Ten egg laying contests were started recently throughout the Dominion under the jurisdiction of the experimental farm system. Two of these contests are located at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, and one in each of the other provinces. The two contests at Ottawa are the Canadian Egg Laying Contest and the Ontario Egg Laying Contest, the former being open to the entire Dominion and the latter to the province of Ontario only.

The Canadian contest opened with 50 pens competing for the honors and there are 24 entries in the Ontario contest. It will be a week or two days yet before the final placing of all last year's provincial contests, which closed October 31, are received at headquarters here and a few days more, then that before comparison of these will be available for publication.

Road Engineering Progress

British Soil Maintains Great Interest In Road Improvements.

In view of the rapid development of road traffic in Great Britain an inspection has been carried out over more than one thousand miles of the principal roads, and careful examination made of the experimental lengths which have been laid out by various novel systems of construction. It is anticipated that a sum of at least ten million pounds sterling will be spent within the next future on road making and road improvements. British roads have enjoyed the reputation of being the best, all-round, in the world, and there is every sign that the new methods devised by British road engineers to enable road surfaces to withstand heavy motor traffic will maintain that reputation.

From the Diary of A Hudson's Bay Clerk in the Seventies

By G. E. MAS-BS (Little Clerk).

(Copyrighted)

After a hard winter at Sturgeon House, an outfit from "Chinook House," I at last shipped the winter gear by York Boat to headquarters, and now for my holiday as I had planned, a hunting trip to the Sturgeon. The party was to consist of an Indian and his family in our large bark canoe and myself in a small bark just large enough for one man and his outfit.

At last we were off, and I looked back at the log stacks we had wintered in with delight at the thought of never seeing them again; yet, for some reason, it had been a hard winter, the chief being fish both for men and dogs. We tracked our trail to the Sturgeon. One amusing incident helped to break the monotony. About the month of February, it was a curious, dog-trip with two weather-beaten travellers arrived. One of them (Owen B. Hughes) was the first Sheriff of Prince Albert in later days and his companion, a native named Kennedy. At that time Mr. Hughes was in the employ of Stobart, Eden & Co., fur traders, and was travelling from Norway House to Duck Lake. Their snowshoes were worn out and needed re-setting, so the men's wives were set to work at it and Mr. Hughes became my guest. That first evening we had suet, dried and smoked, nothing else but tea with plenty of sugar, and I am sure he polished off at least half a dozen. For breakfast, appeared a fine dish of plain boiled potatoes, one of the nets that morning, for we kept five nets under the ice all winter, catching, however, nothing but large red suckers, small perch, and a few trout. Mr. Hughes "glared at me, showed his chair back, and used some strong western epithets as to the quality of the food. He, then yelled, "John! in stentorian tones. John day appeared. Go to our sleigh and bring back a few more of those of food. My, but we did feast, and then I explained the situation. Those being short of the winter, I was limited to a clerk's allowance of two hundred pounds. This I would not eat alone, so I just bread on Sunday, my two dogs and their families sharing it with me. In later years, meeting Hughes in Prince Albert, he had my good laugh over this experience.

Our commissariat for the trip was very limited; a small stock of maple syrup which we had obtained by tapping the adjacent forest. It was, of course, a little stale, but it was, I think, a little stale and sugar, with a few pounds of fat for making soap. But our hearts were full of hope over the prospect of game, beaver especially, for no one had been up the river for years.

We camped the first night about ten miles out, having started late in the day. Fine paddling, smooth stretches of water with scarcely any current, then a small rapid, generally shoal, up which my small canoe would shoot like a Jackdaw, while Patrick often had to wade and lighten his heavily laden craft. Fish soup, with a little syrup for supper, and then to bed with a determination to get something edible next day.

We went up again at 10 a.m. and called all hands; a hasty snack and by noon we had made twenty miles. Here we were lucky in capturing a large Sturgeon who was trying to ascend a very shallow rapid. Pushing the canoe ashore I threw myself on the fish and after an exciting struggle, landed him. Result—boiled Sturgeon, very good for dinner. Another long hard paddle and we camped at a rapid above here. We had been fishing with much success, judging by the remains lying scattered about. The next day, about 10 a.m., we passed the mouth of three small creeks and here Patrick found beaver signs and our first moose-water at the prospect of fresh meat. Going about a mile up the main river we picked our traps among some large birch trees, there being no large Sturgeon in this was a beautiful camping ground.

After helping to set the tent we returned to the little creeks to watch beaver, both going in the large canoe and on foot. We had used the dark to see to shoot. Having no luck we made for camp. A wireless signal was being sent from the main camp when game was sighted. The game of the canoe was shaken. Presently I felt the canoe shiver, and on a flash of plain beaver, I saw him come from some overhanging water. I could see the dim outline of an animal, so quickly fired. An amazing shot followed and we were deluged with water. Handling the bag on board, it turned out to be a large black sucker, which, I was told, is not edible.

We here crossed the river and left time to my decision to give the game a better look. This time a strong wave was visible going ahead of me, and I at once fired where I pursued the animal. A tremendous splash followed and under the impression I had killed a beaver (who will never leave his hole, you put your hand in his mouth). I grabbed the soft fur and with some effort threw it into the canoe behind me. And then arose a big din, for, behold, it was a large buck other. It was only struck by the bullet which glanced on his skull, and I immediately attacked Patrick, who was in the stern. It was too close for him to shoot; he, then, he might have got me. After a combat lasting some minutes, he managed to turn it with a large arrow. We fortunately had in the canoe for landing Sturgeon. Pat was very mild and did not in the least hurt me. It took us some time to subdue his injured feelings. Finally, on reaching camp, we all had a hearty laugh over it. But a third wife was by no means pleased, as hearing the two shots had visions of a nice beaver supper and here was only a wolf, which we had eaten, and which was worse. Fortunately she or Job (the son) had saved a partridge and a rabbit, and on these we feasted fully and then to bed with a deep vow that we would have something better on the morrow.

Doubt Permanency Of Coal Strike Settlement

Agreement Does Not Ensure the Necessary Rapid Increase in Output.

London.—Commentators on the coal settlement doubt its permanency in its present state. Its terms are too complicated for discussion in a cable, but it can be said that expert observers are nervous about the terms do not appear to provide favorable conditions for that rapid increase in output which the government insists is the country's crying need.

Final figures of the ballot showing as they did an actual majority against the settlement, have given cause for disquiet. The miners' federation, however, took the responsibility for calling off the strike, several members declaring that the men would return to work willingly.

The Times says this much about the strike—that it has cleared the air and shows many suspicions held by both sides to be too sweeping. Nevertheless, the Times, with other newspapers, hopes a note of fear that the extremists have not been finally dealt with, although there may be peace for some little while.

War Against Soviet Subs

Earl Curzon States British Government Does Not Intend to Run Any Risk.

London.—Replying to the Russian Soviet Government's recent note concerning the operation of submarines by the Soviet navy, Earl Curzon, secretary for foreign affairs, says that the British Government's belief in the proposed aggressive action of the submarine was based on a Soviet minister's statement which was subsequently shown to be untrue. The British Government, he added, did not feel justified in running any risk and now had found its fears confirmed by the Soviet note which would permit of a Soviet submarine torpedoing a British ship under the excuse of mistaken identity.

The Russian note, he said, was a direct challenge to the British Government, and it was engaged in open hostilities against British interests and against the Soviet Government. The Russian note, he added, was a direct challenge to the British Government, and it was engaged in open hostilities against British interests and against the Soviet Government.

Problem of the New Canadians

25,000 in Alberta Who Are Unable to Speak the English Language.

Edmonton, Alta.—That there are 25,000 adults in the province of Alberta who cannot speak the English language and a great many more who cannot read, was the statement by J. Morgan, supervisor of schools and the new Canadians, in an address before the Northern Alberta Teachers' Association. These thousands of people, he said, were by no means illiterate, but they were unable to read and write, and the only direct avenue through which this great number can be reached is through night schools for adults in rural communities.

Other speakers were Prof. Malcolm Wallace, of the University of Toronto, and J. W. Barrett, provincial organizer of the Alberta Teachers' Association.

Vancouver Cuts Prices

Vancouver.—A 20 per cent reduction in its prices in about two weeks time is announced by one of the leading local restaurants. The cut is made possible by the reduction in "prices of raw materials." Lately there has been noticed a slight decrease in the cost of certain foodstuffs.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has issued a report showing the number of each description of farm livestock in Canada on June 15 last, estimated from returns collected by the bureau from individual farmers in conjunction with the Provincial Governments.

This reveals the total number of horses in Canada on that date this year as 340,352, while last year it was 366,499. Mules numbered 9,055 as against 15,102 in 1919. Cattle numbered 9,477,380 as compared with 10,084,011 last year, sheep 3,720,783 as compared with 3,241,958, and swine 3,536,678 as compared with 4,040,070 in 1919.

Poultry is 30,505,819 as compared with 36,465,248 a year ago. Rabbits, 1,000 in British Columbia, number 21,146 as against 83,050 in 1919. Cattle show a decrease in all provinces, save Prince Edward Island, and horse in all provinces with the exception of Prince Edward Island and British Columbia.

Republican Victory in U.S.

Senator Harding Elected President of Republic by Sweeping Majority.

New York.—One of the most sweeping Republican victories in history stands recorded for Senator Warren G. Harding, for president, and for a Republican Congress.

Defeat in their fight both for the presidency and Congress has been early by Democratic national leaders on the basis of the increasing Republican vote. With the presidency and Congress went to the Democrats of governor, state legislators, and other state and local candidates. The break even threatened the border states hitherto "solid south," with Republican gains in some southern states larger than any since the civil war.

Senator Harding's victory over Democratic leaders, which many Republicans hailed as the "salutary referendum" upon the League of Nations, was impressive. The results presage a larger majority in the electoral college for Senator Harding and his running mate, Governor Coolidge, of Massachusetts, than any since 1888, except about the vote of 48 for President Wilson in 1912 during the Republican "split."

The Republican congressional swing was as strong, increased majorities in both Senate and House being marked up.

The first trial of woman suffrage contributed largely to the Republican majority and also was a factor in delaying the count in many states. The millions of women's ballots also showed the popular vote recorded beyond all records.

Senator Harding accepted his victory without "exaggeration, stating that he was "excited given to the God to make me capable of playing my part."

To Governor Coolidge, the next vice-president, he sent a message stating: "We've got a real job and we'll tackle it together."

Compliment to Canada

Empire Press Union Speaks Highly of the Dominion.

London.—Much that was complimentary of Canada's hospitality was said at a luncheon by the Empire Press Union to Lord Bunsford, president Imperial Press conference, which toured Canada recently.

Lord Bunsford also said that Canada wanted British news in Canadian papers from the British viewpoint, and that the British wanted almost as much Canadian news in the British press from the Canadian viewpoint.

Desperate Bolshevik Offensive

Anti-Soviet Forces Are Fighting to Save Their Winter's Supply of Food.

Schastopol.—General Wrangle's cavalry unit is engaged in an attempt to stem the tide of the Bolshevik offensive in Southern Russia. Red airplanes are bombing the narrow railway tracks running from Perkop into the Crimea. Taurida is overrun with Red armies. The Second, Sixth and Thirtieth Armies are in the line, in addition to four divisions of cavalry and other corps of the best of the Red troops. If General Wrangle is able to hold off the Bolsheviks at the Perkop isthmus, he has stood enough to last him through the winter.

Condemn the Proposed Embargo on Wheat By United States

New York.—The movement about in the United States to have an embargo placed on Canadian wheat imports as a medium of increasing the domestic price of wheat received adverse comment in the World. The newspaper says:

"It must be assumed that in appealing to Washington for an embargo on imports of wheat from Canada, the Chicago Board of Trade is animated by the purely altruistic purpose of helping the growers of Kansas and, round about, to corner wheat and boost the farm price and profit, rather than of helping itself to an old-time corner for the benefit of its own crowd."

"Nevertheless, the utter futility of this embargo effort ought to be as apparent to the Kansas farmer as it must be to the Chicago speculator. This country is still a producer of wheat beyond its own needs. The price is accordingly fixed, not at home, but in the outside markets, where the exportable surplus goes. Canada has this year grown a wheat crop as large as its own, over 100,000,000 bushels for export, and the surplus will directly or indirectly fall upon the Liverpool wheat market and affect the price for the United States as well as for Canada, just as certainly, whether it is first sold in the United States or first sent to Europe. Such an embargo as is asked for can have no more effect upon the raising of the Kansas or Chicago price of wheat than the damming up of Bohring Strait could raise or lower the depth of the Arctic or Pacific Ocean."

"The federal trade commission is solemnly at work on statistics on the embargo appeals of the Chicago Board of Trade. The committee should be able to find more useful ways of employing its time."

Addresses of Men Entitled to Prize Money Are Wanted.

Ottawa.—The department of naval service is now distributing cheques for naval prize money to men having served with the R.C.N. and R.C.N.V.R. A large number of claims have been paid out, but a great many cheques are still held at the address of the recipients are not known, and the department would be glad of addresses to the address of any man entitled to prize money who has not been paid.

Proposed Visit of Lloyd George

One Great Essential To A Woman's Health Is Her Nerves

Nature intended women to be strong, healthy and happy as the men are, instead of being sick and nervous. But long ago, when the world was young and happy when the whole nervous system is unstrung. The trouble is they pay no attention to their social and household duties that they do to their health. It is no wonder then that they become irritable and nervous, have headaches, faint and dizzy spells, trembling and sinking spells, become weak and nervous, and everything else becomes dark and gloomy.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the very remedy that nervous, tired-out, weary women need to restore them to the blessing of good health. Mrs. P. H. Ryan, Sand Point, N.S., writes: "I have been very nervous and my appetite was very poor. I could not walk across the floor without trembling. I had no rest. I had no sleep. When I was on my second box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I began to feel better and soon I was able to do my work. When I felt like a different person. I am never without them in the house and recommend them to all who suffer with their nerves."
